ANNAPOLIS, MD — The U.S. Naval Academy welcomed the Class of 1990 last week with a personal computer for each of its 1,363 new students.

The Zenith Z-248 PC AT compatibles, selected after a competitive one-year bidding process, will be paid for by the they carried the equipment to their rooms and began setting up, this following two days of instruction on how to use the hardware and software.

The system includes two 360K floppy drives; 512K of random-access memory; an 8-MHz 80286 processor; a high-resolution, IBM EGA-compatible color graphics monitor; six expansion slots; and a variety of software, including DOS 3.1, Turbo Pascal,
