RESUME OF MAXINE H. RENEKER

Maxine H. Reneker was born in Chicago, Illinois, on 2 December 1942. She received her B.A. degree in Latin, magna cum laude, from Carleton College in Northfield, Minnesota in 1964. She received a National Science Foundation Fellowship to undertake graduate work at the University of Chicago Graduate Library School, and received her A. M. degree in 1970; the research for her Master's thesis, "Book Thefts in Academic Libraries," was supported by a grant from the Council on Library Resources in Washington, D.C. She completed graduate studies in business administration at the University of Chicago Graduate School of Business and the University of Colorado Graduate Business School. She was granted a Doctor of Library Science degree from Columbia University in 1992. Her doctoral research focused on information seeking among members of the Stanford University academic community.

Before coming to the Naval Postgraduate School as Director, Dudley Knox Library and Professor Library Science in May, 1993, Dr. Reneker held positions in five major academic research libraries. At the University of Chicago Library, she served as a Reference Librarian from 1965-66, Classics Librarian, 1966-1970, Assistant Acquisitions Librarian 1970-71, and Personnel Librarian, 1971-73. In 1978, she joined the staff at the University Libraries of University of Colorado at Boulder, where she held the positions of Acting Head, Interlibrary Loan and Personnel/Business Librarian. In 1980, she received a prestigious Council on Library Resources Academic Librarian Management Internship, and served under Patricia Battin at the Columbia University Libraries. From 1981-85, she held the position of Assistant Director, Science and Engineering Libraries at Columbia University and 1985 to 1989, Associate Dean for Public Services at the Arizona State University Libraries. She was appointed Director of Instructional and Research Services at Stanford University in 1989, leaving that position in 1990 to complete her doctoral work at Columbia University. From 1992-93, she was a consultant to the Research Libraries Group in Mountain View, CA, managing the Group's Shared Resources Program.

Dr. Reneker has served as member and chair of committees of the American Library Association, the Association of Research Libraries, The Research Libraries Group, the American Society for Information Science, and the Arizona State Library Association. She has contributed articles to a number of professional library journals, and is a member of Phi Beta Kappa and Beta Phi Mu.
