RESUME OF JERRY DOUGLAS HORTON

Jerry Horton was born in San Francisco, California, on 22 April 1935. He attended the United States Merchant Marine Academy at Kingspoint, New York, where he received the degree of Bachelor of Science in February 1957. He attended the Naval Postgraduate School from which he received a Master of Science degree in management in August 1966.

He was employed by Grace Lines Steamship Company where he served as third and second mate aboard a variety of ships for a period of about two years.

His duties in the Navy have included tours as Executive Officer of USS NAVAJO (ATA 211), USS MANLEY (DD 940), and USS REEVES (DLG 24), as First Lieutenant aboard USS GREAT SITKIN (AE 17), and as Navigator aboard USS DALE (DLG 19). Ashore he served as Commanding Officer of the Military Sealift Command Office, Guam, M.I., and as Military Manpower Officer on the CINCPACFLT Staff.

In November 1976 he joined the faculty of the Naval Postgraduate School. Since then he has taught courses in Defense Resource Allocation, Microeconomics, Economic Decision Making, Systems Analysis, and Policy Analysis.
