NPS Hosts First Naval Space Cadre Summit

Thursday, July 20, 2006

U.S. Marine Corps Captain Kelly George and Army Captain Steve Mosley test a circuit board design in the space systems lab in between sessions of the first Naval Space Cadre Educational and Training Summit held July 12-14 at NPS.

George, a recent graduate who is now space plans officer at USMC Headquarters, joined senior officers from the National Security Space Institute, Naval Academy, Naval Reserve Space Cadre and NPS for the conference, which included VTC briefs by Vice Adm. James McArthur, commander of Naval Network Warfare Command, and Rear Adm. Victor See, who has dual command responsibilities in the National Reconnaissance Office and Space and Naval Warfare Systems Command.

Navy Capt. Alan Scott, program officer and military instructor in space systems helped organize the summit, which was focused on ensuring space cadre personnel have the necessary education and in-depth knowledge of space capabilities and their applications to support the joint war fighter.
