

Calhoun: The NPS Institutional Archive
DSpace Repository

---

NPS Scholarship

Publications

---

2017-01-13

NPS Community Honors the Legacy of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.

Public Affairs Office, Naval Postgraduate School

Naval Postgraduate School

---

<https://hdl.handle.net/10945/51912>

---

This publication is a work of the U.S. Government as defined in Title 17, United States Code, Section 101. Copyright protection is not available for this work in the United States.

Downloaded from NPS Archive: Calhoun

Calhoun is the Naval Postgraduate School's public access digital repository for research materials and institutional publications created by the NPS community. Calhoun is named for Professor of Mathematics Guy K. Calhoun, NPS's first appointed -- and published -- scholarly author.

Dudley Knox Library / Naval Postgraduate School
411 Dyer Road / 1 University Circle
Monterey, California USA 93943

<http://www.nps.edu/library>

NPS Community Honors the Legacy of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.

---

 my.nps.edu /-/nps-community-honors-the-legacy-of-dr-martin-luther-king-jr-

U.S. Navy photo by MC2 Brian Abel

By MC2 Victoria Ochoa

Yeoman Second Class Ana Ingram recites a portion of the famous "I Have a Dream" speech during the NPS Heritage Committee's celebration of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. in Herrmann Hall, Jan. 12. Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. Day honors the life and legacy of a man who devoted his life to equality, social justice, economic advancement, and opportunity for all.

"Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. spent his entire life fighting for not only the rights of African Americans, but for all people," said Master of Ceremonies and Information Systems Technician Second Class Dante McCarthy. "For me, Martin Luther King Jr. Day makes me feel proud to be an African American, because others have gone through so much, as a people, and we have come so far in so few years."

The ceremony included a reading of King's iconic speech by members of the NPS Heritage Committee, and from volunteers across the campus and beyond.

"This is a day of motivation, as well as a day to remember where we came from, and to keep working towards all the things that our predecessors accomplished," said Ingram. "I want to be successful, or even more successful than he was, and to live up to the efforts that those who came before me fought for, to give me the life that I can live now."

The event was organized by the NPS Heritage Committee, charged with helping the university community observe the varied cultures and backgrounds represented in today's military. For more information, check out the NPS Heritage Committee website.