Twenty-eight professionals completed a Master of Arts in Security Studies during a ceremony at the Naval Postgraduate School Center for Homeland Defense and Security March 25.

The graduates comprise professionals from law enforcement, fire safety, homeland security, local government, the military and public/environmental health (see attached list). The first program in the nation of its kind, CHDS provides a cutting-edge, multi-disciplinary curriculum in its 18-month master's degree program in homeland security. Graduates are required to write theses pertinent to their employing agencies.

"These graduates will join a national cadre of cohorts who are helping keep our nation safer," Woodbury said. "We are proud and look forward to their contributions to the homeland security enterprise in the coming years. They reflect the professionalism and dedication our nation deserves."

Four CHDS graduates earned special honors:

- Catherine Ventura, Immigration Officer (Fraud Detection and National Security), DHS – U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services, earned the Outstanding Thesis Award as well as the Curtis "Butch" Straub award. Her thesis, "Flight Plight: An Examination of Contemporary Humanitarian Immigration from Honduras, Cuba and Syria to the United States with Considerations for National Security," won the honor based on overall academic rigor; quality of the literature review; impact of the study on homeland security strategy and future research implications; quality of analysis and conclusions; quality of organization, writing and overall presentation of thesis. The Straub Award is based on grades, thesis and classroom leadership. The award is in memory of one of CHDS' founders.
- Steve Heitman, Chief of the Mercer Island, Washington Fire Department, received Philip Zimbardo Award. This award honors a student who demonstrates the best understanding of the psychological aspects of terrorism. The honor is named after Stanford University psychologist and professor emeritus Philip Zimbardo, who formerly taught at CHDS.
- Raymond Bisogno, Analyst with the New Jersey Office of Emergency Management, and Joshua Shaughnessy, Detective Sergeant with the Indianapolis Police Department, received the Mark Carr Esprit De Corps Award. This award honors students whose actions instilled, sustained and created a spirit of unity and pride within the cohort. The Mark Carr Esprit De Corps Award is named in honor of Mark Carr, a former CHDS student who died in August 2014.

CHDS, located at the Naval Postgraduate School (NPS), is the nation's homeland security educator. Master's degree students develop critical thinking, leadership and policy skills during a rigorous 18-month program. Each graduate completes a thesis on a current issue facing his/her jurisdiction. These theses often translate into policy and practice. The CHDS is sponsored by the U.S. Department of Homeland Security (DHS), National Preparedness Directorate, within the Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA).
